Kentucky Military Institute.

This Institution, created by an Act of the General Assembly, will be opened for the reception of Pupils, on the 1st of March, 1847, under the immediate direction and entire control of a Board of Visitors, Appointed by the Executive of the Commonwealth. It contemplates a Military Organization for Literary and Scientific purposes; an education eminently scientific and practical; the formation of regular habits, and the diffusion of a knowledge of Military Science. Military duties will not be permitted to interfere with the pupils' progress in study, but will rather take the place of its profitable, and often, vicious play. The course of study adopted, and which will be required in order to graduation, is that usually taught in the best Colleges, except that the language is required, (Latin or French), the time usually occupied by the second, being devoted to a more extended course in Mathematics, Natural Science and English Literature. A Preparatory Department is organized in connection with the Institute, in which boys of any age are taken, and are subjected to the same Military discipline as the Cadets. The position of the Institute, at the Franklin Springs, near Frankfort, Kentucky, (recently occupied by the Franklin Institute), is admirably adapted in every respect to Academic purposes; the locality being airy and healthy, the mineral waters salutary, the buildings elegant, extensive and commodious, and entirely apart from the contamination and multiplied malarious influences, which render insupportable a city or village residence. The Institution is placed under the charge of Col. R. T. P. ALLEN, an experienced and successful teacher and commander of youth, by his honorable graduation at the United States Military Academy, his subsequent connection with the Army, and with the Engineering Service of the General Government, as Superintendent of public works; by his long experience as an Instructor, by his recent connection with the Transylvania University.

The Academic Year will be divided into two Sessions of twenty weeks each. The first commencing on the 1st Monday in October, and the second on the 1st Monday in March. The only vacation occupying the months of August and September. The month of July will be spent in an excursion through the State, for the better study of its Geology and of Natural Science generally. Applicants for admission, on paying the charge of the Institute, and presenting a certificate of good moral character, will be admitted into the classes as their advancement may justify, and upon satisfactorily passing the next examination thereafter, will be entitled to a warrant of appointment, as Cadet, from the Governor. The uniform of the Cadets is plain and neat, and being of Kentucky Jeans, will greatly reduce the expense of their clothing. OFFICERS OF THE INSTITUTE.

FRANKFORT CEMETERY.

THE Company regret to state, that owing to the trespasses committed by persons, in breaking down the fences, walking on the borders and resting on the rails of the enclosures, on SUNDAYS, they are compelled to close the gates on each SABBATH, and that no admittance can be obtained on that day. While they most earnestly request every visitor to abstain from walking on the borders, or touching any flower or shrub or fruit, they pledge themselves to prosecute (for the heavy penalties imposed by the charter) any person who commits the slightest trespass. The grounds are now being improved at a very large expense, for the comfort and ornament of our town, and we ask the aid of our citizens, both old and young, in refraining from the slightest act which may be an example for others to commit any trespass whatever.

Persons can visit the grounds during the week in carriages or on foot, but no one can be admitted on horseback. Horses can be tied at Mr. Page's residence on the hill.

IN SENATE.

Mr. PEYTON resumed his remarks at the point where they had been suspended in the discussion of the power of removal as it existed in the Federal Government, and argued that the State Executive derived the power from a similar constitutional provision with that which vested the power in the Federal Executive. True, the two Governments differed in that, the one was limited by express grants of power and the other was only restricted by express prohibitions. The constitution of Kentucky was modeled after the Federal constitution, and almost identical in language with it. The power of removal as it existed in the Federal Government was understood by the framers of our constitution, and it was so framed as to leave the power just as it was in the National Government. The strongest objection which was urged against the exercise of this power, was, that by giving to the President the power of removing the Treasurer of the United States, it gave him unlimited control over the public purse. In the arrangement of our constitution, this difficulty was avoided by making the Treasurer elective by the Legislature and responsible to it. The public printer too, was made elective in the same way and for the same reasons—that they should not be subject to the influence and control of the Executive by means of the power of removal.

Mr. P. again adverted to the Illinois case, and argued that there was a marked distinction between the two cases—that in the one the Secretary was entirely independent of the Governor—not required to attest his official acts—that in the other he was the mere Secretary of the Governor and required to affix his attestation to every official act of the Governor, without which it would not be valid and complete. The one was an office without limit except as to good behavior—the other limited by the term for which the appointing power was elected.

Mr. P. read at length from the dissenting opinion of Judge Smith, [one of the Judges who sat in the Illinois case,] to sustain the various positions he assumed in the argument of this case.

In reply to the committee that the Governor and Senate constituted the appointing power, he quoted from a decision of Chief Justice Marshall, in which it was decided that appointment to office was the sole act of the President.

Mr. P. quoted from a congressional discussion on the bill to establish the Department of Foreign Affairs in June 1789. The motion pending, was to strike out a clause which made the head of the department removable at the will and pleasure of the President. Mr. White, Mr. Sedgwick, Mr. Boudinot and others, argued that the constitution in providing for removal from office by impeachment, did not mean to exclude all other means of removal, but that by necessity a more summary mode of action existed, and that it was lodged with the Executive alone—the Senate having the power of trying impeachments, could not be properly associated with him.—That the mode of removal by impeachment was given to the representatives of the people to be used in cases in which the President might be unwilling to remove the incumbent.

Mr. P. then took up the report of the majority of the committee, and commented upon each position assumed in it. He contended that the committee had not fairly presented the case. They argued against the power of removal by the Governor, when he had never exercised or claimed the power. He had only claimed the power of judging of the existence of a vacancy in the office of Secretary, and filling that vacancy by granting a commission to Mr. Kinkead until the end of the present session. And upon the grounds of Mr. Hardin's utter want of attention to the duties of the office, and his failure to discharge those duties, he had declared the office to be vacant. Mr. P. quoted Bacon's Abridgment as showing what would amount to a forfeiture of an office. A general principle was laid down, that in the grant of every office there was an implied condition to discharge the duties faithfully and diligently, and a failure to do so, ipso facto forfeited the office. Three particular causes of forfeiture were assigned, ab-user, non-user, and failure. This was the common law of England, but that law so far as not inconsistent, had been adopted by us, and was as much the law here as in England. Mr. P. contended that the testimony taken in this case established the forfeiture of the office according to this rule, and that of the vacancy occasioned by this forfeiture, the Governor was the sole judge. The tenure of all offices held for the commonwealth is that the incumbent shall discharge the duties of the office, and when he fails to do it he forfeits his office, a vacancy is created and the Governor has a right to fill it.

Mr. P. argued that the powers of the Government of Kentucky were unlimited, save by restrictions in the constitution. The Federal Government could only exercise such powers as had been specially delegated to it in the constitution which established it—all other powers were reserved to the States, and to the people by express reservation, but the very reverse of this was the case in our State Government.

The restrictions upon its power must be looked for in the constitution, and except when specially restricted, its power is unlimited. The doctrine of construction applied to the Federal constitution however, by numerous decisions of the Supreme Court, is that where a power is expressly granted, authority is at the same time given by necessary implication, to use all the means necessary to carry into proper exercise the delegated power.

Mr. P. denied the power of the Senate to judge of a vacancy. It was an executive act, and belonged to the Governor alone. What would be the force and effect of the passage of the resolution reported by the committee? Could it restore Mr. Hardin to office? Could it prevent the Governor from filling the office at the end of the present session, when Mr. Kinkead's commission will expire, by re-appointing Mr. Kinkead, or appointing any one else? Pass the resolution, and it would be an idle ceremony—a farce—a powerless act. The framers of the constitution would have given power to the Senate to enforce its decision, if it had intended to erect the Senate into a court to revise and nullify the acts of the Executive.

Mr. P. argued against a position assumed by the committee, that the Governor of Kentucky possessed no powers not expressly granted or clearly implied from those expressly granted, and contended that the constitution gave to the Governor supreme Executive power, in the exercise of which he was limited only by express and special restrictions, contained in the constitution itself. But the admission of the committee's position would not deprive the Governor of the power of removal. The Federal Executive had only such powers as were expressly delegated or clearly implied. There was not a clause, or a single letter in the constitution, giving him the power of removal. How did he exercise it? By implication. It followed the power of appointment. The Governor in this case, he repeated, had not claimed the power of removal, but only the power to declare a vacancy. The committee had placed it on the ground of removal, and he had in reply argued the broad question. But the Governor, in his special message, had not claimed it. He wished to disabuse the public mind on this question. The message placed the act on the ground that the office of Secretary had become vacant by the conduct of the incumbent, and that he had proceeded to fill the vacancy. Mr. P. again quoted Bacon's Abridgment, showing the grounds of forfeiture of an office.

[Mr. BUTLER requested him to read from some authority the mode of adjudging a forfeiture of office, by a judicial process.]

Mr. PEYTON replied, that such was the course of procedure in England but not in this country. The whole doctrine had been decided in the Illinois case to which reference had been previously made. In England, a person was held to have a private property in an office, of which he could not be divested but by judicial process. Here no man had a private property in any office. All offices were held for the public good, and such was the theory of our Government.

Mr. P. said he had detained the Senate sufficiently long and must bring his remarks to a close. He had endeavored to meet the committee in the false issue they had presented in the question, whether the Governor had the power to remove the Secretary, instead of the question on the record, whether, when the office was vacated by the acts of the incumbent the Governor had a right to declare it and proceed to fill the vacancy. He had endeavored to show that the acts of the Secretary constituted an abandonment and forfeiture of his office. Whether or not he had satisfied the Senate, the views he had presented had satisfied his own mind that the position he occupied on this question was sustained both by reason and authority. The Governor, he knew, had not acted in this matter, on his own mere personal opinion, but upon opinions expressed by disinterested men, and some of them the most distinguished jurists in the State upon the same subject. Very few now, outside of this town and its vicinity, differed with the Governor on the question. Be that as it might, the Governor had only exercised a constitutional duty to the country and to himself, and the proof in the case, aside from the question of power, showed that it was a just and righteous act. Was it ever contended that offices in this country were to be held for the benefit of the incumbent. No such thing was ever dreamed of. Public officers were expected to discharge their duties faithfully and diligently, and were not to be continued in office when incapable from any cause to perform their duties, or unwilling to do it, would absent themselves from their offices eight months in the year. It was known to Mr. Hardin before his appointment that he would be required to reside at the seat of government; that there were duties to be performed which would require his daily personal presence, and with this fact staring him in the face he was absent a large portion of the year from the seat of government. This law has all the force of a constitutional provision, it was in force when the constitution was adopted, and the constitution provided that all laws then in force not inconsistent with the constitution should remain in force. It was thus recognized by the constitution. It was a part of the duties then of the Secretary, made so by the law and the constitution, to reside at, and keep his office at the seat of government. No pretext of compliance with this duty had been set up in this case. What were the duties of this Secretary—not of State—but Secretary of the Governor, Secretary of the Executive office, penman for the Governor. It was known that from misfortune Mr. Hardin wrote so bad a hand as not to be legible to those unaccustomed to it. And he was the scribe, the pen, to record Executive acts. There was something else than the mere pitiful salary of $750 that induced Mr. Hardin to yield the lucrative practice which he knew he was enjoying in his profession and agree to come here and settle down between the hills which surrounded Frankfort.

He had no more to say—he felt he had discharged his duty to the country and to himself, and with this he was content. It was unnecessary to say whether he had any feeling in this case. It was unnecessary to speak of his relations with Mr. Hardin or with the Governor. He was always willing that his acts alone should be interpreted fairly and properly, without any expression from him of the motives which directed them.

Adopt the resolution, and would it restore Mr. Hardin to office, or would it turn Mr. Kinkead out of office? Would it prevent the Governor from the exercise of any of the powers vested in him by the constitution? The act would be nugatory and vain, so far as its effect in this particular case was concerned; but the Senate were assuming an Executive power not granted to it in the constitution. The people would never consent that this Senate should bring all Legislative and Executive power within its vortex. Whenever the Legislature shall usurp the whole power of the Commonwealth, then there will be an end to the liberties of the people. He begged Senators to pause, before they passed the resolution. It would effect nothing—it was impotent and harmless in itself, but establish the principle contained in it, and you make war upon the genius of our free institutions. You make war upon every principle upon which our government is based.

IN SENATE.

TUESDAY, FEB. 16.

The Senate was opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. WATERMAN.

Petitions were presented by Senators Todd and Holloway, and appropriately referred.

Mr. BRAMLETTE, from committee on Religion, by permission, reported a bill for the benefit of Jas. Jackman, divorcing him; passed.

Also—a bill for the benefit of Harriet and Anderson R. Murray, divorcing them and restoring her maiden name, Harriet Reynolds; passed.

Mr. PATTERSON, by permission, reported a bill to run and establish the line between the counties of Livingston and Caldwell; passed.

Mr. BUTLER, by permission, reported a bill to incorporate the Louisville Rolling Mill Company; passed.

The SPEAKER laid before the Senate the following communication from the Governor:

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

It has been communicated to me, in a manner not to be doubted, that since the commencement of the present session of the General Assembly, William Henry, who, and N. Craig, Esq., were elected keepers of the Penitentiary until March 1849, has departed this life. If the principle applicable to officers at common law govern the case, the death of Mr. Henry terminates the authority of both keepers, and the institution is at present without any legally authorized agent and manager. I have therefore deemed it due to the interest of the Commonwealth, to present the case to the General Assembly, that such action may be had as in their wisdom may be proper.

On motion of Mr. PEYTON, the message was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. JAMES, from committee on Finance, reported a bill to regulate the clerks' and trustees' fees for services rendered under the jury law.

Mr. JAMES said that great abuses were practiced in this respect for the want of a law specially regulating these fees. The amount paid to clerks had increased from four or five hundred dollars, the first year, to ten or twelve hundred dollars. Mr. JAMES referred to Second Auditor's report, showing in detail the amount paid to each clerk.

Mr. PEYTON moved to refer the bill to the committee on Judiciary; lost.

Special Order of the Day.

The resolution reported by the committee on Executive Affairs, in relation to the Secretary of State, Mr. HARRIS asked for a call of the Senate, and absent Senators were sent for.

Mr. HARRIS, who had the floor, declined continuing the discussion on the resolution.

The discussion was continued by Messrs. BOYD, WALL and JAMES.

(This debate will be reported to-morrow.)

The vote was then taken on the substitute offered by Mr. CRENSHAW, as follows:

Resolved, That the Senate advise and consent to the nomination of G. B. Kinkead to be Secretary of State from and after the end of the present session.

The yeas and nays were as follows:
YEAS.—Messrs. Boyd, Crenshaw, Evans, Henderson, Peyton, Swope and Thornton—7.

NAYS.—Messrs. Ballard, Bradley, Bramlette, Brien, Bristow, Butler, Draffin, Fox, Hardin, Harris, Hawkins, Heady, Helm, Holloway, James, Key, McNary, Patterson, Rice, Russell, Slaughter, J. Speed Smith, South, Thomas, Thurman, Todd, Walker, Wall and Williams—29.

So the Senate rejected the substitute.

The vote was then taken on the resolution reported by the committee.

Resolved, That although the Senate considers the nominee, G. B. Kinkead, well qualified to discharge the duties of Secretary, it does not advise and consent to his nomination, because there is no vacancy in the said office of Secretary.

The yeas and nays on the adoption of the resolution were as follows:

YEAS.—Messrs. Ballard, Bradley, Bramlette, Brien, Bristow, Butler, Draffin, Fox, Hardin, Harris, Hawkins, Heady, Helm, Holloway, James, Key, McNary, Patterson, Rice, Russell, Slaughter, J. Speed Smith, South, Thomas, Thurman, Todd, Walker, Wall and Williams—29.

NAYS.—Messrs. Boyd, Crenshaw, Evans, Henderson, Peyton, Swope and Thornton—7.

So the Senate rejected the nomination of G. B. Kinkead as Secretary of State.

The SPEAKER laid before the Senate a communication from the Governor, transmitting a joint resolution from the Ohio Legislature, which was referred to committee on Federal Relations.

Leave was given to bring in the following bills, viz:

Mr. BOYD, a bill to amend an act incorporating the Flemingsburg Fire company.

Mr. WALL, a bill to allow an additional term of Bracken Circuit Court.

Mr. JAMES offered the following resolution which was adopted:

Resolved, That the first and second Auditors, report to the Senate, the amount of money expended by the Board of Internal Improvement during the year 1846. Stating the amount of each item, viz: Salaries of the President, Secretary, Collect or Superintendent, and other persons employed by the Board; also the amount paid for fuel, stationery &c., specifying each item separately.

On motion the Senate took a recess until three o'clock.

Evening Session.

Mr. TODD obtained leave to introduce a bill to amend the act incorporating Lexington and Danville Turnpike Company; referred.

Mr. WILLIAMS, leave to bring in a bill to reduce into one, the several acts in relation to the town of Georgetown; referred.

Mr. HARRIS, leave to bring in a bill to change the time of the Morgan Circuit Court, and Courts of the 19th Judicial District; referred.

On motion, the bills from the House of Representatives were taken up and appropriately referred.

Two messages from the Governor were received. Mr. JAMES reported a bill for the benefit of the Sheriff of Bullitt county.

Mr. PEYTON objected to the passage of the bill, because he understood one of the messages, just received from the Governor was in reference to this matter. He therefore desired the message to be read.

Mr. HEADY saw no reason why the bill should not pass at once. Mr. Samuel is, in fact, the Sheriff of Bullitt, and all he desires, is time to execute a bond, as required by law.

Mr. PEYTON said he understood this to be an effort to legislate a Sheriff into office. He failed to execute his bond according to the requirements of the law, and the office is therefore vacant. The County Court of Bullitt, deeming the office vacant, from the failure of Mr. Samuel to give bond as required by law, has recommended other persons to fill the office, and the nomination of one of those recommended is now on the table of the Senate.

The Clerk read the message from the Governor nominating Thos. J. Joyce, to be Sheriff of Bullitt, in the place of Mr. Samuel, who had failed to execute bond according to law.

Mr. JAMES explained his position in connection with the present case. Knows nothing of the facts of the case; thought the case provided for by law.

Mr. PEYTON declared that the only question in this case is, whether the Governor or the Legislature has the power to fill vacancies, and to appoint such officers.

On motion of Mr. HEADY, the bill and message of the Governor nominating Mr. Joyce, were referred to the committee on the Judiciary.

Unfinished Orders of the Day—Maysville question.

The President of the Senate laid before that body, a series of resolutions passed by the Legislature of Missouri, in reference to the regulations of the army of the United States, for a reduction of the pay of the officers, and to increase the pay of the soldiers. The Clerk reported the "Maysville bill and amendments."

Mr. BOYD withdrew his amendment to the amendment of the Senator from Mason, and presented another amendment in lieu of the one withdrawn.

Mr. JAMES offered a resolution to lay the bill on the table.

Whereas, The Legislature of this State has heretofore authorized by law, the qualified voters of Mason county, to take a vote between Washington, the present seat of Justice of said county, and the town of Maysville, situated upon the Ohio river, and about four miles distant from Washington, which has been the seat of Justice for said county for upwards of fifty years; the first vote alluded to, was taken in August 1845, and the other in the year 1846. And, whereas, the bill now under consideration in the Senate, provides for taking a vote in August of the present year, which if passed would tend much to increase instead of allaying the excitement which has existed in said county for several years in relation to their seat of Justice, therefore, resolved that said bill and amendments be laid upon the table.

Messrs. BOYD and HAWKINS protested against the adoption of the resolution.

The vote resulted—yeas 18, nays 15.

So the bill was laid upon the table.

A bill to erect a bridge across Buck Creek, amended by an appropriation of $950, to aid in making a road from the mouth of Muddy river to Russellville; rejected—yeas 15, nays 21.

A bill to repeal the charter of the Licking River Navigation Company; passed.

to salaries, &c., paid to Board of Internal Improvement.

A bill for the benefit of the sheriff of Mercer county; passed.

A bill to change the name of the Mechanics' Savings Institute, to the name of the Mechanics' Bank; passed.

On motion, the Senate adjourned.

Also—a bill to amend an act, entitled an act, to incorporate the Danville and Hustonville turnpike company; passed.

Also—a bill amending the laws regulating the Wilderness road; passed.

Also—a bill to incorporate the Georgetown and Paris turnpike company.

Mr. STEVENSON stated that the bill contained a provision, different from ordinary charters. It authorized the State, and stockholders of the Frankfort and Georgetown turnpike company, to appropriate the dividends on that road to take stock in the road.

Mr. DICKERSON in a few remarks urged the passage of the bill, and Mr. SALTER opposed it.

Mr. WORTHAM moved to recommit the bill with instructions to report a general bill, which was subsequently withdrawn.

Mr. DICKERSON moved to amend the bill by striking out the sixth and seventh sections.

The bill as amended passed.

On motion of Mr. A. G. BOTTS, the vote on the bill to amend the charter of the Louisville and Shepherdsville turnpike company; was reconsidered.

After a protracted discussion in which several gentlemen participated,

On motion of Mr. MCHENRY the bill was re-committed to a select committee, with instructions to report on Thursday at eleven o'clock.

Also—a bill to amend an act, entitled an act, to incorporate the town of Independence in Kenton county; passed.

Mr. WILLIAMS from the committee on Federal Relations, to whom was referred the resolutions offered by Messrs. GLENN and GRAVES, reported a substitute for the same, to-wit:

Whereas, the patriotism and valor of the officers and soldiers of our army in Mexico, has received as it has justly merited, the approbation of the people of Kentucky, and of the Union; and whereas, the only reward of a gallant soldier is the consciousness of having performed faithfully his duty, and its appreciation by his countrymen; therefore,

Resolved, by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That entertaining a high sense of the chivalrous patriotism which has so eminently distinguished the officers and soldiers of our army in Mexico, we tender to their prudent and intrepid commander Gen. ZACHARY TAYLOR, and to the OFFICERS and SOLDIERS under his command, the warmest admiration and confidence of the Legislature and people of Kentucky.

Resolved, That his Excellency the Governor of Kentucky, be requested to forward a copy of these resolutions and preamble to Gen. Taylor.

The resolutions were adopted, unanimously.

Messrs. Stevenson, Hobbs, Graves, Wortham and Spalding participated in the discussions of the bill. The bill then passed; yeas 50, nays 33.

Mr. REED from a select committee reported on the resolutions referred to them relative to the re-organization of the Board of Internal Improvement, and to the practicability of employing the convict labor of the State upon the public works; which report was ordered to be printed.

Mr. REED also reported a bill to extend the improvements on the Kentucky river.

Mr. SMITH moved to lay the bill on the table. The vote stood—yeas 33, nays 54.

So the bill was not laid on the table. After some discussion, the bill was made the special order for Monday next.

Orders of the Day.

The House then took up the report of the committee of the whole, on the bill to incorporate the Licking and Lexington Railroad Company. The amendments adopted in committee, were adopted.

Mr. A. G. BOTTS offered an amendment, which was adopted.

Mr. MCHENRY spoke in opposition to the bill. The title of the road, he conceived, was wrongly stated. It would be more correct to call it the Cincinnati Railroad. The real question before the House, was whether the products of the State of Kentucky should be permitted to be drawn off to the State of Ohio.

Mr. McH. opposed the bill, because he believed it would detract from the revenue of the State derived from the improvements of the Kentucky river. It was true, a tax was imposed upon the stock of the company; but this would not produce an amount equal to the deficit caused by the diversion of travel and trade from the Kentucky river.

Mr. McH. stated his objections to the bill at some length, and alluded, in the course of his remarks, to another project, (the Louisville and Lexington Railroad) which he would advocate before the House in a few days, and which he hoped to be able to show, would not be open to the objections which were urged against this measure.

Mr. PAGE remarked that he hoped he occupied a different position in regard to this bill, than to be governed by local feelings. His objections to the bill resulted from higher motives. It was not necessary at this day to go into any argument to show the advantages of railroads. It had been suggested by the Speaker, that lines of railroads were in process of construction throughout the whole extent of the Union. It was desirable that Kentucky should place herself on high ground, and do nothing which will interfere with this grand project, which had been alluded to by the Speaker.

Mr. P. then explained to the House, the modes in which this road would interfere in the construction of the great work in which Kentucky was so deeply interested. It was possible that the railroad would be a great convenience to the section of country through which it passed. But individual convenience should always yield to the general welfare. He would be glad to see the counties along the line of the road receive all the benefits of the road, but his judgment convinced him of the impolicy of the measure.

Mr. P. next spoke of the situation of Cincinnati, and the effect of the proposed road to pour the richest fruits of the heart of Kentucky into the lap of this city.

He alluded to the effect of cities in increasing the wealth and adding to the population of a State, contending that the commerce of a State, if possible, should be made to contribute to cities upon their own soil. No instance could be found where a State permitted her own products to be drawn off to a foreign city.

Mr. P. gave way to a motion to take a recess.

Evening Session.

Mr. PAGE proceeded with his remarks which were interrupted by the House's taking a recess. It had been suggested that the State of New Jersey had permitted a Railroad to pass through her borders to a city without the State. It was true, and New Jersey derived no benefit from the terminus of that road. He again asserted that no instance could be found where a State afforded the means for carrying her trade from the heart of her own State to a foreign city.

The previous question was then ordered. The yeas and nays being called, the vote stood as follows:

YEAS.—Mr. Speaker, Messrs. Abell, A. G. Botts, Bradford, Bush, Clarke, Cobb, Crawford, Covington, Desha, Devereux, Dickerson, Durbin, J. Elliott, M. Elliott, Evans, Fletcher, Glenn, Graves, Hager, Hall, Hanson, Harrison, Hord, Hoy, Ireland, D. Irvine, Jones, Jordan, Mansfield, Marshall, McHenry, Meriwether, Mitchell, Morton, Owens, Page, Procter, Reed, Seery, Spalding, Stevens, Tandy, Thomas, Vestress, Walker, White and Wortham—37.

So the bill passed.
A message was received from the Governor by the Secretary communicating sundry resolutions from the Legislature of Missouri relative to the distinctions between officers and privates in the U. States army; referred.

A message was received from the Senate insisting on the amendments to a bill in relation to the town of Portland, whereupon a committee of conference was appointed to confer with a committee of the Senate.

Senate Bills.

The following Senate bills were passed.
A bill to incorporate the town of Neetsville.
A bill to authorize the Second Auditor to settle the accounts of R. T. Dillard, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and report to the next Legislature.

A bill for the benefit of Ann S. Clements.
A bill for the benefit of the heirs of Henry Derick deceased.

A bill for the benefit of John Q. Watson and Pemberton Kaid.

A bill for the benefit of the devisees of Lewis Butler, deceased.

A bill to incorporate the Louisville Rolling Mill Company.

The House then adjourned.

FRANKFORT.

FRANKFORT, WEDNESDAY, FEB. 17, 1847.

The response of Governor Letcher to the call of "Many Whigs," to become a candidate for Congress in this District, was received too late for this day's paper. It will appear to-morrow.

THE SECRETARY OF STATE QUESTION.—This question was decided by the Senate on yesterday, by a refusal, by a vote of 29 to 7, to advise and consent to the nomination of GEORGE B. KINKEAD Esq. For a detailed account of the action of the Senate on this important and interesting question, the reader is referred to the report of the Legislative proceedings, which will be found in another column.

The bill incorporating the Lexington and Licking Valley Railroad passed the House of Representatives yesterday evening by a vote, of Yeas 47, Nays 37.

THE SUB TREASURY AND ITS OPERATION.—The practical operations of this disjointed and unseemly scheme of finance, is fast bringing its friends to see there is no virtue in it; and that it is wholly impracticable to carry out the provisions of the law.—For example: An agent of the United States arrived in Saint Louis a few days since, from Galena, Illinois, as the bearer of ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS, hard money. The specie was consigned to Captain Bell, an officer of the Government at St. Louis, and the expenses paid by him for the transportation of this sum, amounted to Eighty Dollars—eight per cent on the amount transmitted. The rate of exchange between Galena and St. Louis cannot, we imagine, exceed one half of one per cent. The money could have been transmitted at a cost of five dollars through the banks or brokers, and the government would have saved thereby the sum of seventy-five dollars. The sum it is true is small, but the rate per cent is enormous.

In November last, the Government paid a gentleman in New York, the sum of $3,950, for transporting from New York to New Orleans, the sum of $503,000. This could have been forwarded by means of checks or certificates from the banks for nothing. Thus is this Sub Treasury sapping the Treasury of the nation.

THE WASHINGTON UNION IN TROUBLE.—In the Senate, on the 10th, Mr. YULEE, of Florida, a Democrat, offered a resolution to expel the reporter for the Union from a place in the gallery of the Senate, because his reports were partial and unjust, and charging the editors with uttering a libel upon the character of that body in a publication contained in the Union of the 9th.

We have received a communication from Louisville on the subject of the proposed Railroad from Frankfort to Louisville. Will the writer be kind enough to send us his name—we cannot publish it without the name of the author.

GENERAL TAYLOR.—The Virginia House of Delegates have passed unanimously a resolution of thanks to General Taylor and his gallant Army for their conduct at Monterey, Palo Alto and Resaca de la Palma. They also direct swords to be presented to General Taylor Colonel MATTHEW M. PAYNE, and to Colonel JOHN GARLAND, all native sons of Virginia, for their gallantry and good conduct in the engagements in which they have participated. Well done Old Virginia!

For the Commonwealth.

FRANKFORT, FEB. 16th, 1847.

Dear Sir:—To prevent any possible misconception of my remarks submitted to the House in favor of granting a charter to a company, to construct a railroad from Covington to Lexington, which might be induced by your reporter's brief notice, I take leave to say, that I did not advocate the policy of making such improvements by the State of Kentucky, but only, that it was our policy as well as duty, as Legislators, to allow any portion of the citizens of the State, who might desire to do so, to expend their own money in making turnpikes, railroads, or any other improvements deemed advantageous to them in transporting their surplus products to market, and in bringing back for their own consumption, as cheaply as possible, such articles of foreign growth as they might want. Respectfully yours,

LESLIE COMBS.

RESOLUTION OF THANKS TO GEN. TAYLOR.

WASHINGTON, FEBRUARY 3.
United States Senate: The resolution of thanks to Gen. Taylor and his army, for their gallantry in storming Monterey, offered some days ago by Mr. Jarnagin, came up in its order, and was read a second time.

On motion of Mr. Crittenden, this resolution was laid on the table, and the resolution from the House on the same subject was taken up.

Mr. SPEIGHT moved to strike out the proviso "that nothing in the resolution should be construed into an approval of the capitulation at Monterey." He was not the man to thank with one hand and censure with the other. He considered this proviso as a direct vote of censure, not only upon General Taylor, who sanctioned the capitulation, but upon those gallant officers, and among them his own personal friend, (Col. Jefferson Davis) from his own State, who made the terms. He could never consent to vote for such a censure.

Mr. ATCHISON moved to lay the resolution upon the table. Lost 21 to 26.

Mr. SEVIER did not see that the proviso implied censure. It only gave an opportunity to those who were disposed to vote the thanks to do so without being committed in favor of the capitulation.

Mr. JARNAGIN said there was not one word in the body of the resolution about the capitulation or the armistice.

Mr. SEVIER called for the reading of the resolution, and after it was read, he said he had no objection to striking out the proviso, as he found it said nothing about the capitulation. He did not approve of the capitulation, and only wished not to commit himself in favor of it.

Mr. J. M. CLAYTON said that, as the Senator from Arkansas had stated, he disapproved of the capitulation, he would be glad to know from him what were the reasons for that disapproval.

Mr. SEVIER replied that he was not disposed to discuss that question.

Mr. CRITTENDEN was afraid that party spirit was somehow or other mixed up with this question. This should not be. General Taylor was the leader of the army of the country, and was devoting himself with all his energy to the duties of his command. If it was only known how exclusively he was devoted to the maintenance of the honor and interests of the country, no partisan in politics even could give him one unkind word.

While the whole country was rejoiced and grateful to the gallant soldier and his gallant army for their brilliant services at Monterey, men in Congress seemed to be looking for some circumstance by which they could tarnish the lustre of the brilliant success which had attended our arms. It would seem as if they intended to drug the very cup which they held up to the lips of the victor.

This resolution, as it stood, was a censure not only upon Taylor, who assented to the capitulation, but upon Worth, and Davis, and Henderson, who arranged its terms. What would the whole army think of this? Men who stood upon the point of honor—who lived and died for honor—what would they think of such thanks as these? They would scorn them. Mr. SEVIER attempted to justify the course of his party in this matter, by a reference to the course of the Whigs upon the bill to remit Gen. Jackson's fine.

Mr. J. M. CLAYTON then made a very forcible speech in defence of Gen. Taylor, whom he honored more for his humanity than his bravery. He adverted to the evil consequences which would result should this proviso be sanctioned. It would be equivalent to saying to our army that they must come out red handed from every battle—that they must bathe their arms in the blood of all within their reach—even of women and children. He considered the resolution as a side blow aimed at Taylor, but he stood so firm in the affections of the American people that it could not affect him. It would have no effect but to arouse the American people more strongly in his favor.

Mr. BAGBY made a speech in opposition to the capitulation, little creditable to his head, and less to his heart. We had nothing to do, he said, with the blood of foreign women and children. It was no concern of ours how much of it was shed.

The proviso was stricken out—33 to 15.
Mr. WEBSTER offered a substitute for the resolution, which was agreed to, 26 to 23, and it finally passed, yeas 43 nays 0.
Senate then adjourned.

THE undersigned, (acting under assurances that the Company, if promptly raised, will be mustered into service,) propose to raise an

INFANTRY COMPANY,

As a part of the Ten Regiments of Regulars, provided by the Army bill just passed by Congress. The provisions of the late Act are extremely favorable and liberal, and must prompt great numbers of gallant, enterprising, and adventurous Patriots in the West to rally to their country's standard. Each Soldier is to receive a bounty of $12 on being mustered into service. The regular pay is $10; and on retiring from the service, each one is to have a donation of 160 Acres of land. While in the service, the Soldiers are supplied with every necessary and comfort, ample clothing, tents, barracks, rations, tea and coffee, and medical attendance, so that the economical soldier may save nearly all his pay, and at the end of the war retire to his land with enough money to open and work his farm. None but sober able-bodied men, between the ages of 18 and 35 years, will be received.

PEKIN TEA COMPANY.

Importers of fine Green and Black Teas.

This Company has been established in New York, for the purpose of importing

CHOICE FAMILY TEAS.

The Company would respectfully inform Country Merchants, and the public generally, that they have opened a branch of their establishment in Cincinnati, exclusively for the sale of their TEAS, where will be found at all times, a large and general assortment of every variety of GREEN and BLACK TEAS, put up in a superior manner in Lead, Wrought, or preserved in their aroma, in 1/4, and 1/2 pound packages, and 5 pound cartons.

Merchants and others visiting the city to lay in their supplies, would find it to their advantage to give us a call before making their purchases, as these TEAS will be sold at lower than the usual quality of TEA has ever been offered in this market.

G. S. VEASEY, Agent, in Melbourne Building,
Corner of Walnut and 4th streets, Cincinnati.

N. B. All orders punctually filled at reduced prices.
